Post Master Frank Graham Retires

Over 150 persons gathered in the Elks hall in Coleman to honor Frank Graham, Coleman postmaster, who has this week retired, after over 50 years with the postal department.

Master of ceremonies at the affair was Lion President Gordon Dunford, who, after the banquet supper called on Jim Montabetti, violinist, and pianist Ken Murdoch to entertain with several musical numbers.

Mr. Dunford then introduced the members of the head table which comprised Mayor and Mrs. Frank Aboussafy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Graham, L. G. Watson, district director of postal service and J. N. Sackville, area superintendent of Lethbridge, Mrs. Kath Raymond, a Coleman postal worker, and Mrs. Dunford.

Mr. Dunford also introduced visiting postmasters from the Crows Nest Pass district from Michel east to Hillcrest.

Mrs. Raymond, representing the Coleman post office staff, called upon Mr. Graham, and on behalf of the staff presented him with a gift. Prior to this event Mrs. H. Allen called on both Mr. Graham and his wife Betty, and pinned a corsage and boutonniere on the couple.

L. Watson then spoke on behalf of the postal department paying Mr. Graham a very fine tribute for his many years of unblemished service and also paid tribute to Mrs. Graham stating that both had contributed in great measure to the good fellowship and life in the community. The banquet, so well attended, he said, was an example of the high esteem the couple were both held in Coleman.

He said that "Frank" is one of the postal department's outstanding postmasters, who had a wonderful knowledge of postal requirements and besides this was always willing to help both the public and the department.

He announced that John J. Yanota of Blairmore, would now take over as supervisory postmaster for the Pass post offices and that Mrs. Raymond had been appointed to replace Mr. Graham until an official appointment is made.

Mr. Watson then presented Mr. Graham with two scrolls from the postal department.

Mayor Frank Aboussafy, speaking on behalf of the citizens of Coleman then paid Mr. Graham a fine tribute. He said that Frank had been in the West a long time as the family had come in the 1890's. He stated that Frank was born in Nelson, and came to the Crows Nest Pass in 1902, and after the Frank Slide fell and buried part of the village they lived in his parents' home until they decided it was time to move and thus came to Coleman.

This move, commented Mayor Aboussafy, was a good one for the Grahams and the town of Coleman. He said that Frank grew up in Coleman and his first job was clipping weeds for the town of Coleman.

Mr. Graham, sr., became postmaster in 1913, and Frank at this time became interested in postal work.

He had a short experience at the International Mine and finally he joined the mail service and worked on a mail train travelling all over Western Canada in such places as Nelson, Hardisty, Edmonton and Wetaskiwin.

Frank, he said, knew such persons as the notorious "Blackjack" and others and being associated with such persons in tough times made a good man of Frank.

Mayor Aboussafy stated that Mr. Graham was one citizen who never shirked a duty as he was an active Lion, an ardent sport fan, being a good tennis and golf player, as well as a hockey player.

The Mayor then called on Frank and on behalf of the town presented him with a lovely gift and wished him many years of happiness in his retirement and new home at the coast.

Mr. Graham then addressed his many friends stating that he was going to miss those familiar voices in the post office each morning and that he was also going to miss his many friends. He related some of the old and humorous events that he had encountered during his many years as postmaster. Several of these stories included the one about a Coleman resident who had ordered a suit from an eastern firm and after several months made enquiries at the post office as to the whereabouts of the suit. Investigation disclosed that another Coleman resident had received a C.O.D. notice and had accepted the parcel and it was found that the suit fit perfectly after eight inches had been cut off the legs of the trousers as the original man ordering the suit was a strapping six foot two man.

Another incident was when a local woman came into the post office one summer afternoon and asked Mr. Graham to let her in behind the wicket. Mr. Graham said that it was against regulations and thus would not let the woman in. Pleading in desperation with the postmaster she finally said, "Mr. Graham, please let me in the back, my slip is falling".

Another humorous event stated Mr. Graham, was the time a little local girl came into the post office and asked him to put a "broken glass" sticker on a parcel she was sending.

Another local person accepted a C.O.D. parcel belonging to another Coleman resident, with almost the same name and despite having to pay a fairly good sum of money for the small parcel, accepted it. Investigation disclosed that the party had received a perfect fit in a pair of spectacles.

After relating several more stories, Mr. Graham expressed his and his wife Betty's sincere appreciation for the corsage, gifts and especially for so many of their friends having turned out to bid them farewell.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham will leave town this week for Victoria, B.C., where they will take up residence.

The couple have a daughter, Frances, Mrs. Duncan Tolson of Victoria, and a son John in Calgary.

SOUTHERN ALBERTA INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE

Leading Canadian industrial experts will take a hard look at and make a searching appraisal of industrial opportunities in southern Alberta during a one-day conference and workshop in Calgary on November 13.

A joint effort of the Calgary Chamber of Commerce and the Chambers of 60 cities, towns and communities in the southern part of the province, the Southern Alberta Industrial Development Conference is believed to be the first of its kind in Canada.

Representatives of companies in all parts of Canada - some of which have already expressed interest in expanding Southern Alberta - are invited to attend.

The conference aims at giving a complete picture of industry's potential in Southern Alberta. Besides outlining the opportunities afforded industry in the area, speakers will discuss the effect upon those opportunities of such factors as finance, labor, markets and transportation.

Featured speakers will be the Hon. George Hees, Canadian Minister of Trade, and the Hon. E. C. Manning, premier of Alberta.

T. M. Mayberry, president, will explain why Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Canada established its newest plant in Southern Alberta. Alberta Labor Minister the Hon. Raymond Reinson will discuss the labor picture in Alberta; the Hon. A. R. Patrick, Minister of Industry and Development, will outline industrial opportunities.

Dr. H. Harries, a leading Alberta economist, and dean of the University of Alberta's faculty of commerce, will deal with markets and transportation. W. R. Taprell of Calgary, prominent financial analyst, and vice-president and general manager of Carlie and McCarthy Ltd., will lead a panel discussion on financing industrial development.

TV Reception Improvement Anticipated

For the past few months now, residents in the Crows Nest Pass, and particularly those in the Burmis area have been watching the erection of a tower, which is going to make quite an improvement in their television viewing. The tower and its related equipment are what is known as a rebroadcasting station.

Completion of this rebroadcasting station will be a milestone to the engineering staff and management of CJLH-TV. The engineering staff has been testing, planning and securing equipment since March of this year. Management sanctioned $50,000 for this project.

Why all this planning and investment of money?

For one purpose and one purpose only - to improve five-fold the reception in the Crows Nest Pass.

The new rebroadcasting station will mean much better television reception for the towns of Brocket, Pinchre Creek, Cowley, Lundbreck, Burmis, Beaver Mines, Hillcrest, Bellevue, Frank, Blairmore and Coleman.

Rebroadcast stations, rarely if ever, are allowed by the Department of Transport to operate on the same Channel as the originating station. For this reason, the new rebroadcasting station near Burmis will operate on Channel 3.

Many people have written CJLH TV to enquire what sort of change this will mean in their individual antenna systems. Some of the questions and the answers supplied by CJLH-TV's Chief Engineer Vic Reed, are included:

Q—Will it be necessary to change our Channel 7 antennas to Channel 3 antennas?

A—Yes, it will, but the relatively small investment for this change will result in far better reception which should increase your enjoyment of TV viewing ten-fold.

Q—Will the mountains still reflect the television signal?

A—Yes, the mountains will still reflect the television signal from the rebroadcast station. In fact, because the signal will be considerably stronger in the Pass area, the reflections will also be stronger. This may result in ghosting if proper antennas are not used.

Q—Some of us are under the impression we will be able to pick up the station with "rabbit ears" now that the signal is stronger. Is this possible?

A—It is impossible for us to say what each individual will need in the way of antenna installation, beyond noting that it must be a Channel 3 antenna. However, I and my staff have been in contact with all TV sales and service people in the Crows Nest Pass and we would urge that you talk to them and they will advise you what is best for your individual case.

Beef Feeders' Tour Ends Successfully

Cattle feeders, farmers, feed mill operators and ranchers from Edmonton south to the border and from Lloydminster west to Lundbreck recently have returned to work with new ambitions and fresh ideas concerning Alberta's beef industry. Their 2600 mile tour, organized by Calgary Power Ltd. with the aid of various Chambers of Commerce, carried the group by bus, car and airplane through southern Idaho.

The prime purpose of the trip was to study custom and contract feed lots outside of Alberta with a view to expanding our own feeding industry beyond the present 30 per cent share held in the Canadian red meat market.

Growth of the industry will require the knowledge of nutrition consultant and cost accountants as well as the skill of feed lot and machine designers. Such growth can only serve to strengthen the economy of the province, create new jobs and increase the revenue from our land.

Idaho, with conditions similar to those in Alberta, and with the cattle feeding industry exceeding the net returns from their famous potato industry, was an ideal area for such a tour. To aid in the free exchange of ideas during the intensive five day program, Frank Shields, manager of the recently formed and progressive Idaho Cattle Feeders Association, joined the group at Idaho Falls.

Acting as advisor, guide and organizer, he was assisted by governmental and university officials, feed lot operators, veterinarians and others. The Idaho State Police provided an escort for the cavalcade of buses and cars, facilitating every move and eliminating all traffic difficulties. The tour was an all-out effort to share experiences and theories for the mutual benefit of two nations unhampered by iron curtain problems.

The rigorous schedule took the 116 Canadians through feed lots ranging in capacity from herds of 300 cattle to operations involving thousands of head.

It included talks by leaders in the meat industry on Marketing Procedures, Outlook for the Future, Processing, Buying and Selling, Transportation and Retailing. An extensive look at Idaho Meat Packers and the King Packing Co. made a lasting impression on the cattlemen by showing the end products of the feeding industry.

From the beginning, our tourists were invited to ask questions and the answers to those questions filled many notebooks. Although the Albertans paid particular attention to the varied feeding systems of American operators, it was generally agreed that each individual feeder has to deal with his own brand of problem. Major benefits from the tour resulted from learning how others met their problems, the international goodwill created by the sharing of a common interest and the opportunity to return home with new knowledge, enthusiasm, ideas and a conviction that, like Idaho, Alberta will grow and the beef feeding industry will grow with it.

Calgary Man Killed On Kananaskis

Lloyd O. Pierson, 40-year-old Calgary trucker, was killed instantly on Saturday, 50 miles north of Coleman on the Kananaskis Highway, when he was crushed beneath a caterpillar tractor.

Pierson, an employee of Balton Transport Company of Calgary, was hauling the tractor to the Bannister Construction Company camp 50 miles up the Kananaskis Highway where a 16-inch gas line from Savannah Creek to Coleman is being installed.

It is reported Pierson was killed when the crawler tractor he was unloading from a lowboy semi-trailer, slipped and crushed him. Death was attributed to massive crushing of the chest and head injuries.

Coroner Fred S. Radford has ordered an inquest in Blairmore on November 13.

Pierson, who was born February 15, 1921, is survived by his wife, two daughters, aged 14 and 12, and a month-old son, also a brother in Calgary, and his mother, Mrs. O. Pierson of Lacombe.

Hall's Funeral Service Ltd. of Blairmore forwarded the body to Lacombe Monday for service and interment.

RCMP Investigate Fire and Theft

The Blairmore detachment of the RCMP is investigating a recent fire and theft of dynamite and blasting caps at the Adlanac mine 12 miles south of Bellevue.

Mine operator, John Seneyz of Bellevue, said some 50 sticks of dynamite were stolen from one store house shed and four blasting caps were taken from another shed.

The lock on one shed was sprung, open and the lock on the other was ripped off, he said.

A fire of unknown origin destroyed a diesel compressor, valued at $8300 and a frame sheet metal building housing the compressor. The fire was noticed last Thursday morning when the men arrived at work.

Mr. Seneyz started the mine up early in September to provide house coal for residents of the Pass.

He and two other miners operated the mine which was leased from West Canadian Collieries, which had ceased operating the mine several years ago.

Freeloading

No one knows exactly how much freeloading has been going on in the unemployment insurance program, but everyone is convinced there is a lot of it.

The fund now stands at about $300 million (Nov 15), down from a peak of $926 million four years ago, and it is universally assumed that the coming winter months will add to the pinch. In the hope of reducing the number of chiselers, Ottawa is adding 40 claims investigators to the present staff of 74 enforcement officers. The action seems a wise one, though it can hardly be more than a partial answer to abuses of the fund.

One basic problem with the unemployment insurance problem lies in the desertion of the insurance principle by successive governments. When it was originated in 1941 the fund was intended to cover occasional unemployment; in recent years it has been found politically expedient to extend coverage to the predictable seasonal unemployment of auto workers, fishermen, loggers, sailors and stevedores.

It has become, in other words, a welfare program.

Among others, the national advisory committee to the commission has recommended that seasonal benefits should be divorced from the fund, but because the fund is an easy source of money that advice has gone unheeded.

Regulations now permit an unemployed person to draw benefits up to 77 weeks, and it is established fact that many Canadians taking unemployment cheques, are, at least, morally, not entitled to. Married women who decide to go back to housekeeping are an instance; one reliable estimate says that 50 per cent of the married women drawing benefits are not really unemployed since they would not accept re-employment.

Some seasonal workers prefer to live through their off season on savings plus unemployment benefits, rather than seek work.

Ten years ago regulations were drawn up to cut the number of freeloaders among married women who were drawing unemployment benefits, but protests made the policy politically hazardous and it was quietly dropped.

Today it is even more widely accepted that anyone who can should grab a government handout and weeding out the freeloaders will be that much more difficult.

If the operation of the unemployment insurance funds is not revised and reformed it may be that in the near future those who really deserve and need its help will find that the cupboard is bare.

SERVING THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA

"By the light, of the silvery moon . . ." was just about the only light fifty years ago. After the sun went down you might see the odd flickering light on the main street of your town but otherwise everything was in darkness. Night-time baseball, hockey or curling were unknown.

What a difference today, with attractive high-powered mercury-vapor or fluorescent lights. What a comfort to be able to walk or drive safely through brightly lit streets to visit friends or neighbors. Calgary Power is pleased to power these true "beacons of progress."

However "gate night" or mischief night which was recognized the night before Hallowe'en by a number of vandals, caused considerable damage to private property as windows in one home were broken, 16 car aerials and 12 mirrors were broken off cars and a number of fences were broken down and gates carried away.
